An architect would need to assess the viability of 12,000 sf. That may be tight for a one-story structure, along with setbacks and parking.

To put that into perspective, 43,560sf= 1acre. So 12,000 sf offers just under 1/4 of an acre.

David,

Do you know a minimum parcel size needed? Would a 12K sq. ft. lot work?

However, identifying a parcel large enough to accomodate the containers along building code required parking in DTSP may be a challenge

Good morning,

I will be there. One of the ideas that I wanted to discuss with everyone was the idea of creating a Ports O' Call Marketplace. The POC Marketplace would utilized shipping containers on an empty lot. I'm looking into other areas that have done them recently. They seem to be pretty popular. David, do you have any contact info for how they are organized?

We would obviously need everyone's support.

Thanks for setting up the meeting.

Best regards,
